

White Eagle's Words:

(November Family Service 2018 'Light and Lanterns')

'We shall continue to present our subject in as beautiful a light as we can, believing that this best helps our brother man, believing that the beam of light and beauty in the dark place of life is the surest, the finest and the best way of bringing the human mind into harmony with the divine Spirit. Of what use is it to stand in a dark room and contemplate the darkness, no progress is made thus, but if a lighted candle or lamp be brought into that room, it illumines and reveals all.'

'You are like a candlelight—very simple and unassuming, very little and unimportant—but countless candle lights held up to God increase even God's light and God's glory.'

'So small, each one of us—what can we do? As a little candle may gleam in a vast cathedral, so each is needed. Your life, however obscure in the eyes of others, is of the greatest value to the Master.'

'A pure guardian angel is watching, who sees, beneath your body and soul, ever so faintly perhaps, the spirit, the little glimmer of light. This angel is ever trying to fan that flame, and to give encouragement and help to the flickering light.'
